One of the most picturesque and remarkable bodies of water in the world is Henry's Lake, in Idaho. It is situated on the dome of the continent in a depression in the Rocky Mountains called Targee's pass. It has an area of forty square miles, and all around it ties snow-capped peaks, some of them being the highest of the continent's backbone. In the lake is a floating island about three hundred feet in di-ameter. It has for its basis a mat of ameter. It has for its basis a mat of roots so dense that it supports large trees and a heavy growth of underbrush. These roots are covered with several feet of rich soil. The surface is solid enough to support the weight of a horse anywhere, and there are places where a house could be built. The wind blows the island about the lake, and it seldom remains twenty-four hours in the same place.—[San Francisco Post.
